

June is Month to Pay Our Respects to Feathered Friends at Their Homes

By Prof. Allen C. Cooper (Department of Zoology, Ohio Wesleyan University)

It is a month of indolence, of repose, of ease at last—June, with its blushing brides, sweet girl graduates, blushing roses and nesting birds. During the months which have preceded we have watched an army of birds nest; now it is high time to pay our respects to our feathered friends at their very homes.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you now.

Sparrow Nests Plentiful

The untidy feather-lined nests of grass or straw occupied by noisy English sparrows are all too easy to find in the eaves or under the corners of our houses. The grass-lined mud cup of the Robin is scarcely more difficult, for no native bird has so printed by the settlement of this country. The trees about our houses and the ledges of our buildings are teeming with these birds which are really cousins of the English black-bird of nursery rhymes.

A poor excuse for a home is the flat platform of twigs which the Mourning Dove prepares for its family. Surely a bird whose billing and cooing have earned for its such a reputation for domestic bliss should not risk the lives of its helpless young in a nest so carelessly made or so poorly concealed. There must be a special providence that watches over these defenseless creatures.

No commonly do House Wrens take advantage of properly constructed houses that we will have little difficulty in finding many families of these busy little birds. Inhabited Martin apartments are a common sight in most Ohio towns and where country is more open the Bluebird is often lured to nesting holes instead of a hollow in a neglected apple-tree.

Catbird Scolds
From a nearby post a sleek Catbird scolds as we finally locate the nest in a clump of shrubbery at our very doorstep. Shredded grapevine bark in the structure would have been enough evidence for identification even without the presence of the blue-green eggs or the actions of the worried owner. Hidden away in the heart of an evergreen by the house is a compact cup of grass with a heavy lining of hair and a little chestnut-colored Chipping Sparrow watches anxiously as we take a cautious peep at the four thinly marked blue-green eggs.

Far out on the swaying branches of an Elm, well-hidden by foliage, look for the cradle which the Baltimore Oriole weaves for its babies. House cats which wreak such havoc on young Robins will give the Orioles little cause for alarm. A smaller, hanging nest, not so well woven nor so deep a cup, is the home of the Warbling Vireo. Shade trees along streets are frequently chosen and from its station overhead the owner pours forth its sweet, incessant warbling song, usually all unnoticed by the passerby.

Versatility Shown
Sharp eyes are needed to find the Wood Pewee's home. High up in trees, nestled on a horizontal limb, is a little cup of grass and fibers, covered with moss and lichen, lined with spider silk. From the ground it appears to be a part of the branch which bears it. It reminds us of the still more dainty cup where the Hummingbirds live—a tiny cup of down and spider silk, with its two white eggs—a fitting jewel casket for a ruby-throated builder. Its small size and skillful camouflage with bits of lichen and moss make its discovery a real prize for the next hunter.

These few examples should serve to illustrate the endless variations in the nesting habits of birds. In the selection of sites and materials to be used and in the manner of construction we find extreme versatility shown. Next month we shall tell of some peculiar nesting habits among Ohio birds.

Hoover Stock Goes Up As Committee Settles Contests

FORCES ALERT AND CONFIDENT

Secretary's Managers Are Seen in Command of Party Machinery

By GEORGE H. HOLMES
Star Staff Correspondent
Kansas City, June 5—Herbert Hoover's stock was clearly in the ascendancy today—at least, so Kansas City is concerned.

Admittedly possessed of more delegates than any other candidate, and victorious in their first real skirmish with "the enemy," the Hoover forces were militantly confident and alert today. Their watchword is "no relaxation."

The first of the 70-odd delegate contests offered fairly conclusive proof that the Hoover managers are in command of the party machinery. The Hoover delegates in two states, Florida and Kentucky, have been seated over delegates listed in the field against the cabinet candidate.

Set Down Old-Timer
The numerical value of the delegates themselves is perhaps less significant than the fact that in one instance an organization regular of nearly 20 years standing, George W. Bean of Florida, was authorized and placed outside the convention. It is a rare event in G. O. P. circles for an organization of this type to be shunted aside. Yet it was done so decisively as to leave no doubt as to the strength of the Hoover organization in the governing body of the party.

Today the national committee continued its hearings of the contests, and there was every reason to believe that the Hoover forces would continue successful. The opposition mustered about everything it had in the Florida test—and lost.

Get Practice
It is doubtful if any presidential candidacy ever came up to a national convention any more efficiently and militantly organized than that of Hoover. A striking example of this was furnished in the first day's skirmishing before the national committee.

The full strength of the national committee is 100 members. They sit on judge and jury over these 70-odd contests. The first roll call disclosed 30 odd absentees, that is, members not represented by proxies. Within an hour after the first roll call, five of Hoover's managers had obtained proxies and were sitting on the jury that passed on the claims of the Hoover delegates to seats in the convention. Two of these were paid employees of the Hoover organization. That is a fair example of the alertness and the efficiency of the Hoover organization. The motto seems to be "overlook no bet."

The opposition to Hoover is admittedly strong, and at the same time it is admittedly weak in organization. The anti-Hoover forces had the same opportunity to secure these proxies as did Hoover managers. The fact that they didn't is perhaps the best indication of the lack of organization and direction in the field against the secretary of commerce. It remains to be seen whether this opposition can be captured by the time the convention gets down to balloting, probably ten days from today. If it can be organized and centrally directed, they may "stop him." If not, the outlook from the convention standpoint admittedly is not bright.

However, the anti-Hoover camp drew some small comfort from the fact that two of the real powers in the convention, Charles D. Hille of New York and William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, cast their votes against the Hoover delegates. New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania are necessary to the Hoover cause.

Arouses Comment
Butler's vote caused considerable comment. He is not only chairman of the national committee, but is popularly supposed to be President Coolidge's political oracle. The Hoover managers, however, professed not to be disturbed over Butler's vote. They claim the 34 Bay State vote as certainly for their man, and that include Butler's vote, too. They credited Butler's vote for Bean as simply the action of the national chairman in supporting one of the members of his committee, and asserted it had no significance in the matter of the candidacy itself. They are under no such illusion as regards Hille. He is definitely on the other side. Pennsylvania was absent, being represented neither actually nor by proxy.

Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi counties were on the schedule today. The Hoover candidacy is an issue in all of them.

Frankie Stellmack Is Given Decision Over Jimmy Brown

SNYDER WINNER OF SEMI-FINAL

Local Fighter Carries Every Round To Defeat Elmer Frick; Clevelanders Leave Early In Fight, but Stages Fast Finish

BY KARL R. McILROY
Sports Editor, The Star

A whirlwind finish in which he carried the last two rounds in an easy fashion gave Frankie Stellmack, Cleveland, the judges' decision over Jimmy Brown of Cincinnati in their 10-round main go attraction of the Paget Boxing Show at Crystal Lake Park last night.

The excellent 28-round card was only lightly attended. Threatening rain and cold weather kept the gate down. Around 500 fans saw the battle.

The outdoor season in Marion was opened by the fight. The second card will be put on this month on June 27, three weeks from last night. The card has not yet been completed for the show.

Rooted in Early Rounds

In Stellmack's victory, fans saw one of the best battles put on in the early rounds managing to keep most of them even.

Brown showed up to an advantage in the first seven rounds carrying three of them. One went to Stellmack while the balance were even.

Only two decisive rounds were marked down on the score sheets of the judges during the fight. The last two were won by wide margins. Stellmack who smacked the Cincinnati puncher almost at will. Brown showed up last refusing to do much leading in these last two frames. He was badly punished in the ninth round when he was caught in a corner.

Snyder Easy Winner

Ray Snyder, Marion, continued to add fresh scalps to his belt when he was given a decision over Elmer Frick of Cincinnati. A bout in taking punishment, Frick failed to carry a single round. Snyder pounded him at will, doing but little damage. The local boy is rapidly developing into a first rate boxer and with a bit more of experience promises to develop into a real headliner within the next several years. His willingness to mix it has made him a favorite with local fans.

Joe Kirk of Cleveland lost the decision in a six-round fight with Wildcat Malone of Marion. The fight was close throughout with Kirk trading by a right margin. Many fans favored a draw decision.

Walter Hagen is Leading England in Snortin' Game

BY FRANK G. MENKE

In the "you-snort-then-I'll snort" game between Walter Hagen and dear old England, it would seem that Walt is a snort or two in front.

Over in England they just don't lavary Walt to any vast extent and over in England as well as any place else, Walt doesn't fancy them too much either. So there's been a bit of a feud brewing around for some years with first one and then the other snorting the other into discomfiture.

For a long time only the cooler heads in England prevented the most heated and outraged from calling out the militia or whatever they have next time to put down riots and deal with rioters.

Won in 1928

Walt went over to England in 1922, won the British open and promptly started kidding the natives about it. So much was construed as "bad form" and in the very best circles they began to look askance upon Walter.

A couple of years later he again crossed the big pond and while a great number of Englishmen perhaps never most fondly the hope that his putter would get again or his niblick would contract whooping cough at some critical moment, Walt again won the British open.

Now an advocate of the freedom of speech, and over able to say things with a port event, Walt took his 1924 home by the hand, snorted and said something like this:

"Dear me, haven't you any golfers here?"

England bristled in brown and hoped—well, you can guess what it hoped.

In 1927 Walt was over in England and pretty soon some of the English reporters came around and asked him if he had anything to say:

"Sure," responded Walt in his obliging—albeit undiplomatic fashion. "I guess you want me to say something about English golfers. I will not disappoint you. You British professionals are to be congratulated. They won't spend enough time in practice. That's why we Yanks always trim you fellows. It isn't much fun for us to come over here and fight each other for your golf titles."

For a long time only the cooler heads in England prevented the most heated and outraged from calling out the militia or whatever they have next time to put down riots and deal with rioters.

A month or so ago Walt again landed in England. As a turnup for the British Open he mingled with Archie Compston, the great English Pro, in an England-U. S. A. match. And while the English looked on, snorting, as no group ever had snorted before, Compston dealt out to Hagen the most ferocious beating Walter ever had suffered and one of the most staggering in all golf history.

Compston won 18 up and 17 to play and while America looked at those figures in sheer bewilderment, England looked at them and knew the greatest golfing joy it had known since the game began.

After which Walt, neither subdued nor depressed, but taking his snorting in a really sporting way, pitched up his belt waggled his way into the British open—and darned if he didn't win it.

HORNSBY AND SISLER GIVE BRAVES WIN

Redlegs Fall Victim to Hitting of Famous Duo; Athletics Beat Sox

New York, June 5—George Sisler, once the kingpin of American League players, has made good as first baseman of the Boston Braves with a resiliency undiminished by even his fondly admired and probably no such occurrence has tickled fan's fancy as much since Walter Johnson got into his first world's series.

Apparently no longer bothered by plagues trouble, Sisler has been batting at the healthy rate of .419, the National League, getting at least one hit in every game. He couldn't hit 100 with Washington. His playing has "made" the Braves, aroused new interest in the fortunes of the team, vindicated the managerial astuteness of Rogers Hornsby, and inspired both of the former St. Louis rivals to greater efforts. Nearly every time the Redlegs get in base, the rajah drives him home.

Yesterday Hornsby's eighth homer of the season, with Sisler on base, staked the Braves to a 5 to 3 win over the Redlegs in the ninth. Hornsby has been on a home run spree, having delivered five circuit clouts in the past week.

Dressen and Lip Rixey also hit homers for the Redlegs. Rixey was his first of the season and he is now one ahead of his last season's record, if memory does not fail us.

In the only other game which Jupiter permitted to be played, the Athletics trounced the White Sox, 6 to 3. Grandpa Ty Cobb socked a triple and a single, driving in three runs, and boosted his batting average above .300.

"NOT FAIR"

Rosenbloom Knocked Out By Former English Champion

London, June 5—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York middleweight, held a momentary session with his routine of hand-sets here today and gloomily decried English justice, referees, decisions, sportsmanship and all other things even remotely smacking of Anglo-Saxon origin.

Rosenbloom was knocked out last night in the ninth round of a scheduled 15-round go with Tommy Milligan, former middleweight champion of England. A right to the stomach felled Rosenbloom, whose claim of foul was not allowed. A physician at the bedside examined Rosenbloom and upheld the referee.

Rosenbloom led on points for the first six rounds.

More than 1,500,000 tons of coal were produced in the world last year.

OLYMPIC TIMBER?

PETE ANSON

Another Marion County boy is being seriously considered as possible olympic material as a result of his showing made in the broad and high jumps with Ohio State University. He is Pete Anson, graduate of Prospect High School, who was one of 15 tracksters to receive his Varsity "O" at State.

In 1926 Anson won the championship of the Western Conference in the broad jump and tied for first place in the high jump. The above photo shows the Prospect youth in action at Chicago.

HEENEY WILL MOVE ACTIVITIES TO NEW TRAINING QUARTERS

Hard Workouts for Tunny Scrap Will Start Next Month

New York, June 4—The rugged old rock of down under Thomas Heeneey, is about to transfer his activities to his elegantly appointed summer training camp at Fairhaven, N. J., to polish up his boxing technique for the test to be administered by Prof. Gene Tunney on July 26 at the Yankee Stadium.

Heeneey moves to at Fairhaven next Saturday and with him will go Squire John Mortimer and Phil Mercurio. The squire is Tom's bowell and Mercurio is a sparring partner. The heavyweight challenger, being a man of deeds rather than words, has imported Squire Mortimer from England to handle the talk-

Heeneey will pitch his war tent on a magnificent private estate where sumptuous living quarters have been provided for his staff.

Heeneey will not settle down to serious training until the first of next month. The New Zealander has been doing light work almost daily at the St. Nicholas Gymnasium where he prepared for all of his bout here last winter. He really would prefer to remain there for he says he could work in a cellar and be in shape for Tunney. However, the necessity of the old "ballroom" calls for a more elaborate program.

More sparring partners will be added from time to time. After July 4 Heeneey will have half a dozen human targets.

Tunney has set no time for a formal opening at Speculator where he has been practicing for several weeks. Just now the champion is annoyed by a stone bruise on his heel. A flock of sparring partners will be shipped up to him after the middle of the month.

LEADERS SEEK TILDEN SCALP

Members of American Lawn Tennis Association Will Play Star from Playing in Singles of Davis Cup Tourney

New York, June 5—If some of the backstairs rumors being aired today can be accepted as credible, the next contest in the Davis Cup series will not feature the American's appearance in the interzone finals with the European winner, after all. It will be the usual match between William T. Tilden and the United States Lawn Tennis Association or at least that segment of the organization that is irremediably anti-Tilden. They say this element, headed by Julian S. Myrick, former Davis Cup chairman, is committed to a program that would keep Tilden out of the doubles in both the interzone final and the challenge round with France, provided the Americans survive that long-ridden the American forces, they say, desire the following lineup to hold good through the European campaign: singles, Tilden and John Hennessey, Indianapolis; doubles, Hennessey and George M. Lott, Chicago; reserves, Francis T. Hunter, New York, who has been "acclimating" abroad, and "Junior" Coen, Kansas City, who is going along for the ride.

Wear for Tilden

It was the first intimation of this program that prompted Tilden to write Joseph W. Wear, the present cup chairman, last week asking whether, as alleged, Hunter was to be dropped from consideration without his Tilden's advice and consent as team captain. Wear's reply was distinctly reassuring to those who believe in Tilden and his leadership. The chairman said, in effect, that Tilden's dominance was not in contest, so far as he was concerned.

However, Wear cannot speak for the entire committee. If there is to be any attempt to depute Tilden—the official entries at Wimbledon might indicate—it will be made before the team meets.

CLOSES FIGHT

Lomski and Latoz Are Signed For June 12

Humbert Fugazy closed late yesterday for the Lomski-Latoz light heavyweight match and will stage it at Ebbets Field on June 13, the date allotted to Lomski and Loughran until a new deal was ordered by the boxing commission.

This is one of the season's "natural" and should get a handsome profit to Signer Fugazy, even though the ring-side tax will be only $5. Latoz made a much better showing against Champion Loughran than was generally expected and he could dish the plans for a match between the winner of the Loughran-Slatery shindy and Lomski by blocking the Aberdeen season out of the picture next week. Lomski and Latoz are both aggressive, forward moving fighters with punching power highly developed and unusual capacity for absorbing punishment.

MAY REVIVE RACING ON CLEVELAND OVAL

Opening of Thistledown Depends on Public, Newspapers and Officials

Cleveland, June 5—Whether racing will be revived at Thistledown, Ohio's largest running race track, depends upon the public, the newspapers and county authorities. H. F. Neighbors, head of a Cleveland syndicate which recently purchased the track, announced today.

No attempt will be made to bring racing into desperate through past methods, Neighbors declared, "and if we can get the proper support Thistledown will remain in the hands of Cleveland people. If we cannot get that support we may relinquish the track to outsiders."

Recent reports from Montreal were to the effect that two groups of Canadian race track owners were endeavoring to get control of Thistledown.

Northern Ohio has been without running races for more than a year, due to the "no gambling" edict of various sheriffs.

LEADERS SEEK TILDEN SCALP

Members of American Lawn Tennis Association Will Play Star from Playing in Singles of Davis Cup Tourney

New York, June 5—If some of the backstairs rumors being aired today can be accepted as credible, the next contest in the Davis Cup series will not feature the American's appearance in the interzone finals with the European winner, after all. It will be the usual match between William T. Tilden and the United States Lawn Tennis Association or at least that segment of the organization that is irremediably anti-Tilden. They say this element, headed by Julian S. Myrick, former Davis Cup chairman, is committed to a program that would keep Tilden out of the doubles in both the interzone final and the challenge round with France, provided the Americans survive that long-ridden the American forces, they say, desire the following lineup to hold good through the European campaign: singles, Tilden and John Hennessey, Indianapolis; doubles, Hennessey and George M. Lott, Chicago; reserves, Francis T. Hunter, New York, who has been "acclimating" abroad, and "Junior" Coen, Kansas City, who is going along for the ride.

Wear for Tilden

It was the first intimation of this program that prompted Tilden to write Joseph W. Wear, the present cup chairman, last week asking whether, as alleged, Hunter was to be dropped from consideration without his Tilden's advice and consent as team captain. Wear's reply was distinctly reassuring to those who believe in Tilden and his leadership. The chairman said, in effect, that Tilden's dominance was not in contest, so far as he was concerned.

However, Wear cannot speak for the entire committee. If there is to be any attempt to depute Tilden—the official entries at Wimbledon might indicate—it will be made before the team meets.

There isn't any doubt the posing factious, if such reached a difference of opinion. Tilden wants to play with because he sincerely believes in the best double combination can tennis, as their record states. Those of opposite grant this but claim that longer is able to stand up in consecutive days of challenge.

Marion Has Central Place in Railway Merger Map

Marion occupies a central position in a map appearing in the last issue of the Literary Digest showing the trunk line railway routes proposed by the Van Sweringen in their gigantic merger project.

The map was printed in connection with an extended discussion of the plan taken recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission in refusing to permit the Chesapeake & Ohio to take over the Erie.

Marion's position in the original merger system, as shown in the map, is especially prominent, this city being located at the crossing of three lines forming in the consolidation plan. One of the main lines of the Erie, one of the Cincinnati division of the Erie and the third the Hocking Valley.

Although the Erie is eliminated at least temporarily, Marion is on the route of one line, the Hocking Valley, figuring in a part of the Van Sweringen project authorized by the commission. The Hocking Valley is controlled by the Chesapeake & Ohio and the commission granted permission for a union of this system with the Pere Marquette.

This gives the Chesapeake & Ohio an outlet to the north and is expected to maintain the Hocking Valley as one of country's main coal-carrying lines.

Editorial views quoted by the Literary Digest from prominent sources throughout the country present varying opinions on the commission's action.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer takes an optimistic view, referring to the commission's decision as its "first approval of a major consolidation proposal since the present law on the subject was first enacted."

Expressing the opinion that the whole matter is likely to be adjusted "when the eastern trunkline railroad executives agree upon and prepare a new four-system plan of combinations for approval of the commission," a financial writer of the New York Sun also regards the outlook as favorable. He adds, "The decision handed down by the commission in advance of submission of this plan appears to complete the matter, but no doors have been closed, anyhow."

Opposition of minority stockholders of the Chesapeake & Ohio against taking over of the Erie resulted in the commission's refusal to approve the Van Sweringen's plan as a whole. It was held that no evidence was produced to show that the proposed merger would contribute to the public good.

WEATHER HOLDS UP W. CENTER-ST WORK

Sewer Construction Temporarily Abandoned Following Rain

Further delay in the W. Center-st improvement project was occasioned by the rain yesterday when work on both the building of the storm water and sanitary sewers and of the street car tracks, was temporarily abandoned.

The sewers have been constructed within a short distance of the terminating point at Third-st while excavation for the street car tracks has been completed and the graded stone base on which the 12 inch concrete base will rest, has been placed and rolled with the steam roller. The steel is a heavy one and the rails laid as far east as Cambridge, although the concrete foundation has been completed only as far as Leander-st.

Switches and track leading to the new interurban station on W. Center-st have been placed part way into the station. Both the C. D. & M. and the C. M. & B. interurban cars will use the same track on the west side of the building while the east side will be completed and a parking space provided for intercity bus lines.

While it has not been definitely decided, it is probable that the present bus station on N. State-st will be removed to the new interurban station upon its completion.

W. Center-st merchants are anxious to have the street car track be completed as soon as possible in order that at least one side of the street can be thrown open to traffic.

With the completion of the track, the auxiliary track on the south side of the street will be removed and the street opened. It is probable that the track in between the tracks will not be laid until the north side of the street is ready to be repaved.

Gas Plays An Important Part

If you, as an individual, were thinking of moving today, you would not so much as consider a house if it were not served by gas.

Industry is no different. When it seeks a new location it investigates, asking, first of all, if the city can promise an adequate supply of gas. Unless the city can both promise it and fulfill its promise, industry looks to other cities for more advantageous opportunities.

Marion's future growth depends on what the city has to offer industry.

Your Gas Company knows that a dependable supply of gas for every purpose is of utmost importance to Marion's industrial welfare, and is anxious to aid the city in giving this advantage to industry.

All Your Gas Company asks in return is Marion's recognition that, in the face of increasing production and delivery costs, Gas Is Worth More.

IMPORTANT ROLE IS ASSUMED BY RADIO

Communication Perfect in Transpacific Flight of Southern Cross

San Francisco, June 2—In the epic flight of the Southern Cross over the broad 3100-mile expanse of the Pacific, stretching between Kaula, Hawaii and Suva, Fiji Islands, radio experts here today acclaimed a new and most significant demonstration of the important role which wireless has assumed in the history of air travel.

For throughout the entire space of 24 1/2 hours, during which the huge monoplane was cutting a pioneer path over the wide ocean, its radio apparatus poured forth to a watching world an unbroken series of messages, furnishing a graphic account of the progress.

Never throughout the unprecedented flight were the four hardy adventurers of the air, who comprise the crew of the Southern Cross, isolated.

The faithful performance of the radio set aboard the plane in the air dash from California to Honolulu was repeated and surpassed by its steady efficiency and unflinching endurance during the longest ocean hop yet written into the pages of aviation history.

Crashes

A Chevrolet coach belonging to Frank Hines, 223 Pennsylvania-st., and a Ford coupe belonging to George Park, 460 N. Main-st., were damaged in the third of a series of wrecks at the intersection of H. Prospect and Columbia-sts yesterday afternoon and night.

Shortly after 6 o'clock last night the coach driven by Park was going north on Prospect-st. and was in the center of the intersection when it was struck by the Chevrolet driven by Hines and turned completely around. A front wheel on the Chevrolet was broken and the hood crushed in while the Ford escaped with a broken running board and damage to the four tires. The police were called to investigate.

The accident was the third to take place at this intersection during the late afternoon and evening, according to residents living in the vicinity. No reports were made to the police of the two previous accidents and the identity of the drivers of the cars are not known.

LEACK UNABLE TO PAY LIQUOR FINE

Held in Jail as Sheriff-Consigns Confiscated Whisky to Sewers

Fred Leack, who was arrested a week ago today on a charge of illegal possession, is still in the county jail as a result of being unable to raise funds to pay the $100 fine handed him by Judge William R. Martin in Municipal Court.

Leack was arrested by Sheriff James A. Deal, who also confiscated his entire stock of 550 gallons of sugar whisky. The cache of whisky was found in a garage on S. State-st., just south of the postoffice.

While Leack is lying in jail his whisky is floating down the "beige" River. The sheriff and his deputies dumped the entire lot into the sewer at an afternoon party last Saturday. For more than 45 minutes N. State-st. gutters represented a miniature flood as the liquor flowed on its way to the sewer.

Activity of the officers along the curbing soon drew a crowd of bystanders. A number admitted that they had smelled the liquor a block away and had "just followed their noses." The crowd was pacified, however, as no invitation to "get your tin cups" was extended.

"THOUGHT I WAS TOO OLD TO BE HELPED" HE SAYS

Konjola Restored His Health and Relieved Rheumatism After Years Suffering

MR. E. R. FINNER

"Despite my 85 years, Konjola banished the miseries of stomach and kidney trouble and drove away the aches and pains of rheumatism," said Mr. E. R. Finner, 8 North Adams St., Mansfield, Ohio.

"I suffered all kinds of misery because of a bad stomach and was always taking laxatives to relieve constipation. My kidneys were very weak and acted unnatural. Backaches were almost constant. Worst of all was my rheumatism. My limbs were always aching. All the joints were stiff and sore and it was an effort to get up and down the stairs. Also my nerves were so shattered that I would lay awake half the night. I tried many remedies without results, and thought I was too old to be helped."

"Then I tried Konjola and it has been a blessing to me. My stomach causes no more distress. My kidneys are back to normal again and every ache and pain of rheumatism is gone. I am glad to endorse Konjola."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly endorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sons' pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—A.M.
